Interior Designer wins Commercial Interior Designer of the Year
Cheryl Doran wins 417 Magazine Honor

August 1, 2008 (Springfield, MO) . . . Larry Phillips, principal of Pellham Phillips Architects & Engineers is pleased to announce that Senior Interior Designer, Cheryl Doran has been awarded the 417 Magazine Commercial Interior Designer of the Year Award. In a ceremony last night, Doran was recognized as the winner in the Commercial-Miscellaneous category for her work on the Mount Pleasant Winery in Branson, MO. This is the second such honor for Doran who was the recipient of the same award in 2004 for her design of the Campus Commons project at Ozarks Technical Community College.

Mount Pleasant Winery is the newest addition to the retail wine market in Branson. With limestone accents and two tone board and batten vertical siding, the retail facility follows closely the architectural style of their historic winery in Augusta, MO. The interior features Cherry-wood columns supporting the 30' ceiling. The black stone and rich wood paneled wine tasting bar will offer a relaxed atmosphere. Stained concrete floors and vibrant wall coverings will provide a rich feel throughout the wine center.

Pellham Phillips is the architect for many of Springfield's and the regions landmarks. Included among those is Hammons Field, Chateau on the Lake, the main campus of Ozarks Technical Community College, James River Assembly of God, Second Baptist Church, and Hammons Hall for the Performing Arts.
